158,000 people (residents and non-residents) hunted or fished in Hawaii in 2011, more than the population of the island of Maui (158,000 vs. 117,644).

The number of people who fish each year in Hawaii could fill Aloha Stadium three times (156,700 vs. 50,000 capacity).

Sportsmen and women spent $292 million on hunting and fishing in Hawaii in 2011 - that is more than the combined revenues of the state's six largest agricultural commodities: Cane for sugar, greenhouse & nursery products, cattle & calves, macadamia nuts, coffee, and bananas ($292 million vs. $280 million combined revenues).

Hunters and anglers support more jobs in Hawaii than Queen's Medical Center in Honolulu, the fourth-largest employer in the state (3,781 vs. 3,500).

Spending by sportsmen and women in Hawaii generated $28 million in state and local tax revenue in 2011 - that's enough to support the average salaries of 566 police and sheriff's patrol officers.
